New York, Dec. 5 .- From the Richmond Whig of November 28th, we take the following: It does not seem that our authorities have any suspicion of the effect which the movement of Hood would have. At least we judge so from the very feeble opposition which thus far has been made to the advance of Sherman. It is plain that he is moving to the coast, and so far has been enabled to live upon the country. We think it probable that Sherman will reach the Atlantic coast in comparative safety. His next move, in our opinion, will be by sea to Richmond.

Gov. Brown, of Georgia, has pardoned all the convicts in the Penitentiary, and, with arms in their in for life, whom he could not reprieve, according to Washington, Dec. 5th .- The Republican, in an extra, publishes the following: " By the arrival of a Government transport at Fortress Monroe last evening, the Government has received advices from Sherman to the 2d of December, that when the steamer left, information had reached Savannah that Sherman's advance of cavalry was within six miles of the city. This does not conflict with the news brought by the steamer Belle, which arrived on Saturday night, that the Savannah papers announced that Sherman's army was within forty miles of the city. The papers do not state at what date he was at that distance from the city. A gentleman recently from Savannah informs us that there are no important defences on the west side of Savannah."

NEWBERN, Nov. 27 -It is reported that all the available rebel forces at Wilmington and other points in this State are moving to the assistance of Georgia. Bragg is assigned to the Department of North Caropapers in this State report the abandonment of the Wilmington expedition by the Union forces, which appears to give them great relief.

Every effort was being made for the defence of Savanuah. Our prisoners report that boys thirteen years old, and even women, were assisting in the trenches and earthworks. Sherman was slowly but surely advanging to the coast. No doubt of his success need be entertained.

From Grant.

New York, Dec. 5 -The Richmond papers diseredit the reports that General Grant is crossing men from the south to the north side of the James, and say: "It is not on his right, but on his left, that Grant meditates an early and heavy attack." Some important movement, in the vicinity of the Dutch Cap canal, by the monitors, is also supposed by the Ricamond editors.

New York, Dec. 5 .- The Tribune's Washington special says the rebels have just opened a new battery near Fort Darling, raking the channel from Dutch Gap up. New York, Dec. 1-The Richmond papers of the 28th say that General Grant is massing his troops on his left, and if the weather keeps favorable, may make another effort in that direction. The city was full of rumors last night that Grant's forces, in conjunction with the Navy, were moving on Richmond, and that a flect had passed up the Dutch Gap canal, as well as that an important movement was making in the Shenandoah Valley, but nothing has been received in confirmation of these reports this morning.

The Battle of Franklin. NASHVILLE, Dec. 2d .- The battle of Franklin was one of the most brilliant of the war. For three days sharp skirmishing was kept up during the retirement of our army from Duck River to Franklin, during which time a multiplicity of exploits and successes resulted to the National arms. Gen. Cox conducted the event of the 29th and achieved a splendid victory over the rebels at Spring Hill, while Gen. Wilson's cavalry gained a series of important successes over Forrest's advance, under Roddy, on the turnpike between Triune and Spring Hill. During the aftermoon of the 20th the rebel army sorely pressed us, under Hood, who had Cheatham's and Stewart's corps in position and Dick Taylor's command, numbering altogether, 22,000. Owing to Cox's gallant check at Spring Hill a portion of the Fourth and Thirteenth Corps were enabled to gain Franklin early in the day. They drew up in the line of the works estending from one to the other of the curves in the river, behind which our entire infantry command took position. At 4 P. M., the entire rebel force made a charge, and succeeded in making a break in the centre commanded by Wagner. With characteristic impetuosity the enemy comprising Cheatham's Corps, dashed into the works, co-operating with the attacking party, their left attempting to envelop and destroy our right. In the nick of time the troops of Wagner were rallied and throwing their whole force on the rebel column, drove back the storming party in great disorder, capturing several hundred prisoners. Four times the rebels charged in three lines, and were repulsed as often, with great slaughter. The rebels numbered at least two to our one. Nearly half of the 4th and 234 Corps were in reserve. Our breistworks were knee high. The rebel loss in killed is three times ours. Their wounded is six times more than ours. The artillery fire of the enemy was made with great accuracy. Their ammunition consisted chiefly of shot and shell, while for two hours immense quantities of more murderous missiles were hurled with fearful fury into the rebel lines. The attempts of the rebels to gain a permanent advance were frustrated. At dark, the Federal position was unchanged, and the rebels retired under cover of the woods, south of the Columbia turnpike. An artillery duel was kept up till near midnight, when our troops commenced crossing Harpeth river, bringing all their trains over in safety before daylight. Our

the river by our trains. At least five thousand rebels were killed, wounded and captured, while our loss will probably reach fifteen hundred. We have taken from the enemy thirty flags. Some regiments, among them the Seventieth Ohio, have taken half a dozen pieces [of artillery?] General Schofield directed the battle from the Fort on the north bank of the stream, where some guns and the batteries of the Twentythird Corps played, and which did great service in army then retired to within four miles of this city, at which point our front line confronts the enemy.

The falling back of the army is in accordance with the programme. The battle at Franklin, although one of the most brilliant, was an impromptu affair, brought about by the necessity of cheeking the rebels' advance, and to insure the safe crossing of damaging the enemy's right wing. Washington, Dec. 3d .- The latest official information from Gen. Thomas is, that he has so concentrated his forces at the fortifications of Nashville as to be prepared for any movement which Hood may venture

CINCINNATI, Dec. 5 .- Gen. Stanley, wounded at the battle of Franklin, arrived yesterday, and says that the reports of the battle that have reached the great value, filling the roads for 12 miles. It was not intended to hold Franklin longer than necessary to send our property out of the way. The rebels had been pressing us very hard from Columbia, and at one time we were in great danger. Hood lost his opportunity in not attacking our forces at Spring Hill. Schofield's army consisted of the Fourth and Twentieth Corps, together with the regiments which recently entered the service. They left Pulaski on November 22d, and were so closely pursued that it was feared at one time that the artillery and wagon trains would have to be abandoned, but by good management all were brought through in safety. Gen. Stanley, who has been in nearly all the battles in Tennessee and Georgia, says the musketry fire at Franklin was for an hour the most intense he ever witnessed. In addition, we had twenty-eight guns in the action having a full sweep of the rebel column. The Times' Nashville correspondent, of the 3d, says: The enemy's line of battle is just two miles from this city. Murfreeshore, Bridgeport and Chatheadquarters at the house of Edmonson, on the Murin the South to overthrow the Richmond dynasty. A good many arrests have been made in North Caro-Virginia. The discovery created considerable con-

freeshoro turnpike, four miles from the city, and said that Hood had orders to go to Nushville or to hell.

New York, Nov. 30 .- Captain Hall's Arctic expedition has been heard from. On the 27th of August, Captain Hall was at Rowe's Welcome, bound up. The vessels from Hudson's Bay are all hands, has sent them to the front, except those put | in for this year, and no further tidings are expected till September. Governor Vance, in his regular message to the North Carolina Legistature, confirms the report that the laws cannot be enforced in the interior of that State, owing to the existence of a band of desperadoes, consisting of rebel deserters. They make raids upon the mountain frentier, and murder, burn and destroy with savage cruelty. He recommends the outlawing and driving of them from the State.

The rebel ex-Congressman, Roger A. Pryor, acting as a private soldier in the Confederate army, was captured last Friday by our pickets while attempting to exchange papers. This was done in retaliation for the recent capture of Captain Burbridge by the rebel pickets. Pryor says Lee has issued an order for the return of Captain Burbridge by Saturday, and Pryor would probably be returned as soon as Burbridge arrived. Since Pryor's capture Bu bridge has been | five descendants. Verily, she has done what she dismissed from the army for disobeying the order | could. lina, which constitutes his command. > The Legislature of Alabama seems to be losing hope in the Confederacy. An extra session has just adjourned. It was called especially to provide for the more thorough defense of the State. Instead of doing so, they fooled away their time (according to Rebel authority) and left the Governor sticking in the mire, from which he summoned them to drag him. The only thing they really did attend to, according to a letter in the Mobile News, was the increasing of their own salaries for the approaching

> Henry W. Allen, the rebel Governor of Louisiana, is putting into effect his recent advice to the rebel-Secretary of War, to arm, drill and make soldiers of the blacks within their lines. Squads of rebel cavalry are operating in the vicinity of Bayou Goula, Iberville Parish, and a number of negroes were taken. The negroes have fled from the plantations, and are lying hid in the woods, or endeavoring to reach Placque , ine and other military posts.

The Florida. New York, Nov. 30 .- The Herald's Fortress Monroe special says the Florida sank from an unknown cause, but supposes she sprung a leak in her seams, which were weakened by the blow from the Wachusett at the time of her capture. An official report to the Navy Department shows that extraordinary efforts were made by the Alliance, as well as those on board the Florida, to save the latter vessel. It was only when the impossibility of preventing her from sinking became apparent, that further attempts were

The Boston Daily Advertiser of this morning, in relation to the capture of the Florida, publishes an able article, in which very strong ground is taken against the comments of the English press, and in which many English violations are quoted to show that the ship should not be given up. It is understood to be from the pen of Senator Sumner.

New York, Dec. 1 - According to the World's Fortress Monroe correspondent, the Florida had been ordered to Norfolk to coal. Just before starting she was run into by the transport Alliance and very seriously damaged. She was in very bad condition when captured, and her steam pump was kept going constantly. After this last collision she filled at the rate of eight inches an hour. An additional pump was set to work and every effort made to keep her affoat, but still to no purpose, and before she could be towed to shoal water she runk.

In the rebel Senate, resolutions denouncing the capture of the Florida were introduced. They say it is the duty of the Brazilian Government to protect Confederate property in its territory, and demand the restoration of the ship. They provide for the appointment of a Commissioner to Brazil on the subect; also for laying the facts before the European Governments.

Congress.

Washington, Dec. 5 -The House assembled at noon and was densely crowded. All the members are in the best humor and are exchanging salurations. The Speaker called the House to order, when a prayer was offered up to the Throne of God by the chaplain. The roll of members was called and upwards of 150 answered to their names. A quorum was announced

Washington, Nov. 10 - The grand celebration in Washington of the recent sweeping victory of the Union party came off to-night; At eight P. M. the different Union organizations assembled in front of the headquarters of the National Union Association. on Ninth street, and a procession was organized, with two bands of music and a number of transparencies with patriotic mottoes, and proceeded to the White House. A large crowd had previously assembled in front of the Presidential mansion, and the addition of the procession densely crowded the avenue leading

After the performance of patriotic airs by the bands, the President appeared at the window over the grand entrance, and was enthusiastically cheered by the immense crowd assembled. He then addressed them as follows:

"It has long been a grave question whether any government not too strong for the liberties of the people can be strong enough to maintain its own existence in great emergencies. On this point the present rebellion brought our republic to a severe test, and a Presidential election occurring in regular course during the rebellion added not a little to the strain. If the loyal people united were put to the public, are not exaggerated. The first fight was utmost of their strength by the rebellion, must they made to save our trains, which were of large size and not fail when divided and partially paralyzed by a political war among themselves? But the election was a necessity. We cannot have free government without elections, and if the rebellion could force us to forego or postpone a national election, it might fairly claim to have already conquered and ruined us. The strife of the election is but human nature practically applied to the facts of the case. What has occurred in this must ever recur in similar cases. Human nature will not change. In any future great national trial, compared with the men of this, we shall have as weak and as strong, as silly and as wise, as bad and as good. Let us, therefore, study the incidents of this as philosophy to learn wisdom from, and none of them as wrongs to be avenged. (Cheers.) But the election, along with its incidental and undesirable strife, has done good too. It has demonstrated that a people's government can sustain a national election in the midst of a great civil war. (Renewed cheers.) Until now it has not been known to the world that this was a possibility. It shows also how sound and how strong we still are. It shows that, tanooga are deemed safe. Commodore Fitch has a even among the candidates of the same party, he who flest of gunboats here. General Cheatham has his is most devoted to the Union and most opposed to treason can receive most of the people's votes. (Applause.) It shows also, to the extent yet known, that we have more men now than we had when the war The situation of our forces is considered perfectly | began. Gold is good in its place, but I ving brave and patrictic men are better than gold. (Cheers It is reported that a wide spread conspiracy exists and other demonstrations of applause.) But the rebellion continues, and now that the election is over, may not all having a common interest to reunite in a Hua, in Upper South Carolina, Georgia, and some in | common effort to save our common country? (Cheers.) For my own part, I have strived and shall strive to avoid placing any obstacle in the way. (Cheers.)

So long as I have been here I have not willingly planted a thorn in any man's bosom. While I am duly sensible to the high compliment of a re-election, and duly grateful as I trust to Almighty God for having directed my countrymen to a right conclusion, as I think, for their good, it adds nothing to my satisfaction that any other man may be disappointed by the result. (Cheers.) May I ask those who have not differed with me to join with me in this same spirit toward those who have? And now let me close by asking three hearty cheers for our brave soldiers and seamen and their gallant and skillful DRAWING HIM ON .- The Richmond papers argue that Sherman has been allowed to penetrate Georgia thus far for the purpose of "drawing him on" to his own destruction. It appears however, that he is spreading destruction in that State, and has already traversed over one hundred miles of it southeast of Atlanta. If the rebels draw him on much farther, it is but little he will leave of Georgia.

Confiscation -- The New York Tribune says that | Soft Shell Almonds the selfish and unprincipled London journals in the interest of the rebels characterize confiscation as cruel and without precedent. Why, there is not an old baronial property in England that does not bear the clutchings of Commissioners of Confiscation as distinctly as the Ohio limestones show the grooves of the traveiling boulders. Precedent! After wiping the blood of civil war off their swords, Mary confiscated, Elizabeth confiscated, the Stuarts confiscated, James II. confiscated, William III. confiscated. And if the American people do not confiscate the estates of the traitors and rebels against their authority, it will be both because their education in history, which is philosophy teaching by example, has been thrown away, and because the instinct of self-preservation was left out of them when they

NEW VESSEL OF THE PIRATE SEMMES.—The U. S. Consul at Liverpool, Thomas H. Dudley, writes on the 18th of October to the Department at Washing-

The English screw steamer Sea King, built at Glasgow in 1863, cleared for Bombay, and sailed from London on the 8th instant, with a large quantity of coal, 50 tons of metal and a crew of 47 men, in command of Capt. Cobbett Sisco, U. S Consular Agent at Dover, says he has reliable information that Capt. Semmes is to have this vessel. From what is known at this office about the Sea King, independent of the information of Sisco, I have not the least doubt she is the vessel the steamer Laurel is to meet, and that Capt. Semmes, with the officers, men and gans taken out in the Laure', will be transferred to her. Their place of meeting is not known to me. The Sea King is a very fast, strongly-built and fine-looking screw steamer; built of wood, with iron frame, and coppereli; about 1,000 tons burthen, and 222 feet long; one funnel, three bright masts, ship rigged, heavily sparred, machinery abaft the mainmast. No doubt her name will be changed.

PIRATICAL PLOT BROKEN UP -Our renders will recollect that the steamer from Panama ten days ago reported the discovery of a plot to capture the Pacific mail steamers. The steamer that arrived yesterday brings full particulars. Some twenty-five men had banded together at Havana, under one flogg, alias Erson, a Lieutenant in the rebel navy, for the purse. Their plan was to go on board the steamer Salvador, at Panama, as passengers, and to take the vessel after she had proceeded to sea. The party went aboard, but were known, and surrounded in the cabin by a force of marines from the Lancaster. After the Salvador had proceeded out of the jurisdiction of the authorities the pirates were transferred to the Laucaster, and thence sent to New York. Arms, ammunition, handcuffs, and opium for drugging the officers of the Salvador, were found in the possession of the pirates, together with instructions for capturing vessels, from the rebel Secretary of the Navy, but no commissions were found - S. F. Paper. TRIAL OF THE 1,000 POUND CANSON .- Since our last mention of the 20 inch gun, the carriage has been completed and the gun mounted, and on Wednesday, October 26th, this gun was loaded and fired, with the largest charge of powder and the heaviest shot that has ever yet been discharged from any piece of ordnance. The Armstrong gun has been fired with 90 pounds of powder and a missile variously stated at from 830 to 600 pounds. The 20-inch gun was fired on the 25th ult., with 100 pounds of powder and a soled ball of cast-iron weighing 1,080

The gun was first fired with a blank cartridge of 100 pounds. It was then leaded with 50 pounds of powder and a solid shot, and fired point blank. The hot struck the water, throwing up showers of spray as large as a ship. For the last trial a charge of 100 pounds of powder was placed below a solid shot of 1,080 pounds, and the gun was elevated at an angle of 25 degrees. At the report the ponderous globe rushed up through the air with a hoarse roar, and sweeping its long ellipse fell a great distance-estimated three and a half miles-away into the sea. The report of the gun was not perceptibly louder than that of moderately large ordnauce, and the concussion produced no extraordinary trembling of the earth. There is no doubt, however, that the half ton of cast-iron which this gun burls forth would have more effect in crushing in the sides or deck of an iron clad ship than any other missile that has ever been wielded by human skill. We are in possession of facts, and shall soon give to the public full particulars of the trial of a wroughtiron gun of smaller calibre, for which we recently solicited a patent for a well-known engineer in this city. The result will probably far surpass those of any other gun yet brought before the public .- Scientific American.

To Periodical Subscribers!

NOTWITHSTANDING THE INCREASE in the price of American Magazines and Newspapers, as well as of postage, I will continue to supply my subscribers during 1865 ON THE SAME LOW TERMS AS HERETOFORE, which now barely cover expenses.

For prices, see periodical list published in another part of this paper or on the supplement. H. M. WHITNEY.

FOREIGN PERIODICALS

NOTWITHSTANDING THE RISE IN the Subscription price of the leading American Monthles and Weeklies, and the increased postage on them, I shall continue to supply my subscribers at the old rates, at least until further notice, though in some instances, these periodicals, are now furnished by me at about the cost. Ten years experience in the business enables me to supply my customer- with foreign periodicals cheaper, quicker and more satisfactorily than they can be obtained from any other source. Try and see. Now is the time to subscribe so as to secure all the numbers from Janua-
